Hotel Nightmare:

Your wife has talked you into driving down to see her parents for the weekend. It's the first night out and you are staying in a nice hotel where you do not expect trouble. As you get off of the elevator from getting ice you are confronted by two armed men. Fortunately you are still armed so you immediately drop your ice bucket as a distraction then draw and fire on both men. You want to get to your room to make sure your wife is safe so you head across the lobby to the hallway going to your room. As you cross the lobby you are met by two more bad guys that you must engage as you move across the room. When you get to cover at the far hall you are confronted by yet another pair of armed men in the hallway. You must engage them both in order to secure your room and ensure your wife's safety.
